The San Juan River is located at the southern border of Nicaragua with Costa Rica. The River flows from Lake Nicaragua into the Caribbean Sea; species such as tarpon, snook, gar, bull shark and saw fish come up the river as well as many other smaller species during migration and spawning season all year long. This is a tropical rain forest / Jungle, with its driest period from January to April. For your fishing trip, upon your arrival to San Carlos you would take a 1 hour boat ride to the town of “Boca de Sabalos” (Tarpons Mouth). This small river town serves as a trading post for natives of the area. The lodge is located on the mouth of the “Sabalos River” with the San Juan River. The fishing begins right in front of the lodge, which has rooms with private bathrooms, sun powered panels that guarantee constant electric power and great food.

The fastest way to travel to the river is by airplane from Managua to the lake river port of San Carlos on the mouth of the river. A paved road was finished just a few years back, which has diminished the air traffic to San Carlos and the second-best option is to travel by land. It is a beautiful scenic drive through Nicaragua’s cattle country and depending on the traffic you can be in San Carlos in about 4-5 hours.
